Tips and Tricks

Wearing armor increases your Stamina. Stamina is used for actions that use Magic Points (MP), such as Spellcasting and the use of potions. When you move or jump, your Stamina recovers for a short period of time.

You can view the Skill Points required for various actions by using the Skill Palette window. The number of Skill Points required for each action differs depending on the type of armor, Boots, Gloves, Helmets, and Shields that you equip. In a Skills menu, you can equip up to three Skills at one time.

The Battles menu allows you to set the battle location (town and territory/castle). Based on your battle location, you can aim a goal. Battles will be set by the opposing team. If you have a high level and a clear goal, you are more likely to win.

Developing Skills in battle allows you to heal your own hit points, as well as hit points from your team.

As you gain experience, your level will increase. Based on your level, dungeons become more difficult, and your own, high-level skills will increase. By answering in-game inquiries about your level, you may be informed that a Unique Weapon has been dropped in battle. You can read the message, and then use the item.

There are several items that you can use to increase your combat power.

Mana Stone Items (Stone Forging, Reason's Parts, and Corporeus Roots) can increase your Mana Stones.

Life Stones can be used to heal yourself and reduce your own MP consumption.

Mana/Life Stones that have been attached to Items that either have an ""item"" listed in their casting icon or have the Crafting ""Item Effects"" checked in the menu tab ""Item Effects""
