Arizona is a leader in bringing jobs to the state. Joining Rep. Flake, former Secretary of State Jan Brewer, and State Senator Leland Yee, today members of Congress and a panel of economic experts will discuss the economy and the future of our country at the 2013 Economic Summit. The event, which will be held in Phoenix at the Urban League Building, takes place from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The Summit is sponsored by the Center for Arizona Policy, a group that supports traditional values. "These are exciting times to be in Arizona, and our Economic Summit is proof of that," said Linda Chavez, president of the Center for Arizona Policy. "With the right policies in place, we can ensure that no single interest receives an economic advantage, and that the free enterprise system is preserved for future generations. It is amazing that we are part of a state where so many people are using their God-given talents to find success for themselves and the community." The event is expected to draw from across the political spectrum, including Tea Party members, Republican moderates, Democrats, and others. "The Chairman of the Center for Arizona Policy understands that we are living through the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression," said Congressman Matt Salmon (R-AZ). "Arizona's economy continues to benefit from traditional values, strong families, and a low-tax environment. We need to continue to deliver these values, and that's why I joined the Economic Summit." The 2013 Economic Summit is co-sponsored by the Center for Arizona Policy, State Senator Leland Yee, and former Secretary of State Jan Brewer. Sponsors include the national Christian Coalition, the Center for Arizona Policy, d0c515b9f4
