Jeremy Smith: Find which tool has the last build We use a c# ASP.NET application for building our website. It's working fine. I have a clean server and I'm currently on version 132 (Build date - 18/07/2010). In order to check which version of the application I used the Application_PreRequestHandlerExecute method which is being executed before the request is sent to the server (using the Global.asax). However I'm not sure how to get the last version I used. Is there a way to get that info? We use TeamCity, and it's possible to send build reports to it. A: Maybe you could use the /ApplicationEnd event in Global.asax.cs protected void Application_End(object sender, EventArgs e) { BuildNumber = Application["BuildNumber"]; }

And I would like to say a word about Application state. If you want the most up to date information use the `HttpContext.Current.Application` object and not the `Global.asax.cs` static `Application` object. Hope I could help, if you have any questions, please leave a comment

Q: Getting ORA-00604 syntax error when executing sql statement I'm getting the "ORA-00604 syntax error" when executing a simple SQL statement from a PL/SQL block. The statement is: `select 'hello world' || TO_CHAR(SYSDATE, 'DD-MON-YYYY') from DUAL;` My proc looks like this: `create or replace PROCEDURE test() AS a NUMBER := 5; BEGIN select 'hello world' || TO_CHAR(SYSDATE, 'DD-MON-YYYY`
