There is a legacy sql setup with every schema, tables and data migrated to the DB. Everything is working fine when I start the app manually using command line. But when I start the app through startup-app.groovy I get error: You have an error in your SQL syntax; check the manual that corresponds to your MySQL server version for the right syntax to use near '9' at line 1 While executing the service at startup. The legacy sql is used at runtime by domain classes using HQL queries, e.g.: def byId = Product.findAll(where: "byId=?",params) If I replace "byId" parameter by id I don't get the error. How can this error be fixed? I still want to use the legacy sql for app startup. A: It was a problem with the legacy plugin. There are queries in it which are not valid in MySql syntax. a 50-minutes ET. The release date has yet to be announced, but it looks like the focus on marketing won't be on the GTA Online portion of the game. Although there's the possibility that it will also be released alongside the PS4 and Xbox One. As for the online multiplayer aspect, it appears that Rockstar Games has once again hired a new PR firm. Since GTA Online was announced, Two X Media has been working hard promoting the title from within the gaming community. However, the most exciting development is that the firm is also working on a huge marketing campaign for the upcoming GTA 6. "Though the press has been working overtime to get
